PILLAGE OF ROME

The report that the Germans are engaged in the systematic sacking of art galleries, libraries and museums in Rome comes via several routes and confirmation is unnecessary. The propensity of the Germans for looting is too well known. They did it in the last war and they have done it in this war—only on a scale that dwarfs all previous accomplishments of the sort.

In fact, so brazen is the attitude of the leaders of the Reich
that it would occasion little surprise if the plundering of Rome were confirmed from Berlin in some specious Goebbelsian pronouncement attempting to justify the deed by reaffirming the we-own-the-earth philosophy of the Nazi party.

But plausible as Dr. Goebbels can be upon occasion, there is no argument he can use that can even come close to excusing the perpetration of German vandalism upon the treasures of Rome.
Rome is not only the capital of Italy and the seat of the Catholic Church—it is a monument to European civilization. Much of the world's history stems from Rome, and the world is vitally interested in the preservation of its treasures as priceless milestones of the progress of mankind (some of it, anyway) upward from the age of barbarism and savagery.

The preservation of those treasures does not lie in their removal to Germany. They are safer in Rome. Recent developments indicate that the Germans
do not intend to try to hold Rome against an Allied siege, and there is reason to believe that the Allies would try to bypass it rather than besiege it. The only danger, then to the treasures of Rome comes from the Germans themselves.
The only explanation for their removal lies in the arrogant acquisitiveness of the Germans for anything of value and a possible futile hope of using them for bargaining purposes.

No matter who gave the orders, the looting of Rome will remain just one more immortal stain on the German nation. The world will remember that it was done, not by Nazis, but by Germans.

The OPA regulation that wholesalers must affix labels showing the ingredients of frankfurters, sausages and bologna is another type of public education
that will be followed with interest.

New Dealers are jubilant because New York is to elect a lieutenant governor this Fall and they figure Tammany can swing
it. That would be a reverberating victory for the common people,
progress and global democracy,
and a blow to reactionary Toryism.

Argentina is planning to burn
75,000,000 bushels of wheat, apparently having despaired of ever being able to sell it to the Axis.

Italians rejoice every time their government is handed some bad war news, but the German populace seems to be completely bereft of hope or brains, or both.

Fifth Army Well On
The Road To Rome

Gen. Clark hurled fresh reinforcements and supplies across the rainswollen river in support of his spearheads.

Swiss radio reports quoted the Germans as admitting evacuation of the entire Volturno valley, while a Cairo broadcast said the enemy was preparing for a siege of Rome.
The major European front in Russia was marked by steady Red Army advances. The recently-opened drive to liberate the Crimea gained momentum and hundreds more Germans drowned as advancing Russian troops hurled them into the broad Dnieper River.

The drowning occurred as panicky Nazi forces sought to escape across the river after the fall of Zaporozhe, Russian official circles announced that 1,500 German officers and men died in this way.

At Kiev, too, fierce German counter-attacks availed little, and the Soviet troops continued in their drive on the vital city. In several hours of violent fighting, the Russians knocked out 67 of 100 counter-attacking Nazi tanks.

Enemy opposition also was stiff around Gomel, but further Russian advances were scored there, too.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Armen continued their mounting of fensive against Jap positions north and east of Australia. Following up their recent devastating assault upon the key Rabaul base on New Britain, the Allied fliers bombed
three airdromes on that island.

Shower Tendered Overseer And His Fiancee by Grange

LANGHORNE, Oct. 16.—Following the meeting of Middletown Grange on Wednesday evening in the Memorial house, here, the usual program was dispensed with, and a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Elizabeth Short, a member of Carversville Grange, and Stanley Twining, overseer of the local Grange.

Mrs. Leslie Kirk was in charge of plans.

Prior to the shower a very short business session was conducted by the master, Herman Heston, and at that time it was decided to hold a Hallowe'en party at the next meeting on Wednesday evening, October 27th. A committee was appointed to arrange for this, and later in the evening the committee held a short meeting, and it decided the party should be in the form of a masquerade. All members were asked to come in costume, and those failing to do this will be fined.

Mrs. George H. Yerkes, of the home economics committee, announced that members of the Grange serving in the armed forces overseas have been sent Christmas gifts, and that those serving in this country will be sent gifts in the near future.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Bristol Presbyterian Church
Eternal God, our Loving Father, cleanse our minds this day of all evil thoughts and carnal desires. Remove from us all those elements of our lives which stand between Thee and us. We know that in many things we fail Thee, and that most of our failure is due to the fact that we desire more of self and less of Thee. Deliver us from selfish living and selfish thinking. Make us zealous for the things of the spirit and desirous of Divine approval upon our lives rather than the mere satisfaction of personal desire. In this way enable us to accomplish Thy will and advance Thy Kingdom. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

GRAND THEATRE

From vaudeville, night clubs and musical comedy, as well as from Hollywood, 20th Century-Fox has assembled an array of entertainment headliners for their top-notch musical, "Stormy Weather" which opened last night at the Grand Theatre.

Something new in musicals, "Stormy Weather" has a full cast of stars combined with a story that is a cavalcade of rhythm. Boasting the best tunes of all, its production numbers are among the finest ever filmed. "Stormy Weather" is the story of swing on the upbeat from the era of jazz, ragtime and blues to the torrid, tuneful tempos of today.

Frank, fearless, dramatic and entertaining, "Hitler—Beast of Berlin" opened yesterday at the Ritz Theatre.

The flaming blend of war and wanton destruction that has marked the onward rush of Nippon's little demons inspired the exciting battle drama that opened Sunday at the Ritz Theatre, the potent and heroically filmed "China."

BRISTOL HIGH PLAYS UNDER LIGHTS AT RIVERSIDE TONIGHT

Local Eleven Will Seek Its Fourth Straight Victory

STIFF OPPOSITION

McDevitt Not Likely To Be In Line-Up, Due To Injury

The Bristol High-Riverside High school are tonight will begin at eight o'clock. The tilt will be played under the lights at the Riverside stadium.

Bristol will seek its fourth consecutive win against the Jerseyites, but knows it will face the stiffest opposition yet this season. Last season, Riverside registered a 19-0 triumph over the Bunnies.

It is still doubtful whether Joe McDevitt will be able to don a uniform this week. Injured in the George School game, McDevitt has been on the sidelines. Captain Ianucci, who was injured against Conshohocken, was in the practice sessions this week and seems fit to play.

The localities were fortunate in pulling last week's game out of the fire. With five minutes left to play, the Conshy team appeared to be sure winners, but the localities deadlocked the score and then, with a 55-yard pass, managed to win the game.

Joe Toti, star halfback of the Riverside team, has also been on the injured list but may be able to see action against the Bunnies.

Bucks County Council of Republican Women Hear Address on County Gov't

Under charities comes largely the maintenance of children both in church and other schools such as the Catholic and the Lutheran Children's Bureaus, the aid societies of Delaware and Montgomery counties, Sisters of St. John the Baptist, Tabor Home and other places.

Under miscellaneous comes the cost of maintaining the Superintendent of Schools Department to some extent such as quarters, secretaries' salaries, stationery and supplies, telephone and other items. The State takes care of the other school expenses.

Under miscellaneous also comes expenses incidental to securing figures in connection with vital statistics.

Under the heading of military contributions, legislation permits the county government to contribute $75 toward a soldier's burial and $50 for a headstone. It also permits contributions to the National Guard and to veterans' posts for celebrations such as Memorial Day and Armistice Days.

Under hospitals and health organizations, the county makes annual contributions to such organizations as the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, Abington, Grandview and Quakertown Hospitals.

Under historic and civic, contributions are made to the Bucks County Historical Society, the S. P. C. A., Rescue Squads and the Bucks County Council of Defense.

Before the opening of the general meeting, there was a short meeting of the board of directors of the Council. Reports of chairmen and all standing committees were made at the morning's session.

Republican candidates for county office in November were introduced. They included Marvin V. Keller, Newtown, Register of Wills; John L. Stover, Warwick Township, County Treasurer; Mrs. Leonora H. Leator, Rigelsville, Clerk of Orphans Court; Harry W. Wambold, West Rockhill township, Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court; Simon K. Moyer, Silverdale, and John S. Roberts, Bristol, County Commissioners; J. Alfred Rigby, Bensalem township, coroner; and Amos J. Kirk, Wycombe, County Surveyor.

County Superintendent of Schools Charles H. Boehm, of Morrisville, attended the afternoon session. He discussed "The Problems Facing School Directors Today." He mentioned the shortage of teachers, juvenile delinquency, the type of teachers available in war time, inability to construct new buildings, transportation difficulties and the fact that programs cannot be extended at this time, as the most outstanding facing the directors.

Mr. Boehm said that school boards are having more trouble finding boarding places for teachers than finding teachers. He pointed out the number of factors which make the picture far from depressing.

While the man power shortage has forced some high schools to give up manual training and physical education teachers, married and older teachers are filling the gap left on the faculties. Of the older teachers who have volunteered their services, about one out of 10 find they cannot stand the work, but others are doing outstanding jobs. He said that very few teachers have been lost to industry and one of the greatest troubles school boards have is finding suitable boarding places for the teachers in the rural schools.

"Don't let anyone tell you that we aren't having juvenile delinquency," Mr. Boehm warned. He went on to say that this is not a war problem, although it is somewhat aggravated by war time conditions. One answer to this problem is teachers in whom the boys and girls can confide. Teachers of this caliber can often make up for deficiencies in home training, the speaker pointed out.

Mr. Boehm said that while Bucks County is bounded by New Jersey, which has always been able to pay higher salaries, "Bucks County communities can keep their good teachers, and bring in good new teachers, if they make life pleasant and attractive socially for the teachers."

their own companionship, and generally it is not of the best type.

Concerning the causes for juvenile delinquency, Mr. Biester said often boys working in defense plants make large sums of money, and they do not know how to spend it. This some times gets them into difficulties. Other boys, it was said, may not be fortunate enough to have access to large sums of money, and, seeing their friends have all the money they want to spend, they try to keep pace with them with the result that they may resort to robbery.

It has been found frequently that children taken before the juvenile court have no wholesome place to which to go, and in some instances they do not hesitate to point out that this is one cause for their getting into difficulties.

Appealing to the members of the club, Mr. Biester said they can do much in the way of preventing crime among the young people. He paid high tribute to the Boy Scout movement, the Big Brother associations and other organizations which take an interest in the boys and girls. He also suggested supervised play, and said this community is fortunate in having a playground to which the young people can go.

King Neptune Takes Over As Ship Returns

The ship was cutting through the water at high speed. Some of the neophyte sailors and, undoubtedly, a god part of the "black gang" working in the engine rooms were preparing themselves for a bone-crushing jolt. (One of the youngsters later confessed he thought we were ramming a submarine. Another said he was waiting for the bombs to explode.)

And, at this juncture, the boat-swain barked:

"Bump, you pollywogs. We're crossing the equator!"

There was no celebration of the navigator's carefully calculated point until Tarawa was left in ruins and the force was steaming away into the night.

Energy that had been pent-up in the men waiting for an enemy air attack that never came found release after darkness when the ship's Shellbacks (men who previously had crossed the equator) launched a wholesale hair-clipping campaign upon the hapless pollywogs.

When the task force was safely out of range of enemy aircraft, a message blinked out from the flagship of Rear Admiral Charles A. Pownall, commander of the carrier group. The admiral, a man with a sense of humor and himself a loyal subject of King Neptune, notified the captains of all ships in the task force as follows:

"His Majesty, King Neptune, was disappointed to learn that these ships had entered his domain with so many lowly pollywogs and vile handlubbers aboard."

And that was all the shellbacks needed.

Neptune, portrayed on this vessel by a chief turret captain, came aboard wearing the usual beard and crown made, respectively, of twine and paper. According to tradition, he was preceded by his piratical royal scribe, one Davey Jones, who obtained the captain's permission to deal with all neophyte seafarers and vile handlubbers in fitting fashion.

The royal court then followed His Majesty up through the hawspipes and, thus began the wholesale punishment and paddling of pollywogs whose guilt was never in question. They automatically were convicted of all manner of crime and misdemeanor against the realm of the deep, were doused with salt water spewing from a hose, then were given a going over by the royal surgeon, a pharmacist's mate from Watertown, Conn., and a final scissoring by the royal barber, a shipfitter of Dobbins, Calif.

The result was that, in this ship alone, more than 800 officers and men were converted into wringing wet, oil-spotted, sore-tailed shellbacks; and, in addition, they also were inducted into the exclusive order of Jolly Roger since our force crossed the equator and the international dateline simultaneously.

Stresses Improved Health Through Diet

intermediate group. We are not ill, but some possibly nervous, irritable, lack pep, suffer with backaches and headaches. . . . The general thesis is that we are not well enough nourished to begin with. And being overweight is just as much a manifestation of malnutrition as being underweight. Then, too, just tightening the belt doesn't help. Those who are overweight are probably eating too much of the wrong kind of food, and not getting what they really need."

The manner in which the proper results can be accomplished as regards proper nutrition for the great mass of people presents a big problem, Dr. Mack admitted. "But we are trying to get the proper information into people's hands. Although there is a scarcity of food, we must utilize all we have to the best possible advantage."

That the State Council of Defense is through the nutritional studies having worked out well-balanced menus from the foods available, in order to bring bodily health up to proper requirements was mentioned. There are of necessity taken into consideration, she stated, the various sizes of families, the incomes, the ages, type of work done, ration points available, etc. "The nutritional state of war workers is worse than others we find. This is possibly due to the fact they are working under strain, take little time to eat and when they do oftentimes rush to a vendor's cart, not getting proper foods." The introduction of a snack system via the push-cart in some war plants was mentioned, with well-fortified foods being carried. Fine results have been shown in such instances where men and women can get milk, fruit, wholesome sandwiches, etc.

Questions asked by members after the meeting showed their keen interest in the health of their families.

FRUIT TREE MORGAN

A feature of the day was a display of fruits, vegetables, jellies, etc., preserved by club members during the summer. The variety was large. Results of a survey of canning during the season by club members was presented by Mrs. Keith Rosser. Of 67 members reporting, 7,678 quarts of food were canned, 2,240 of these being from their own Victory gardens. Twenty-nine women did a great amount of canning, and 27 "a little," they stated. Nineteen had attended canning demonstrations, according to the survey. Two members had each canned 600 quarts of food, one securing all of it from her own garden, and the other 290 from her own plot. The varieties showed 24 kinds of vegetables, and almost as many kinds of fruits. Three members had dried beans and corn, and some had frozen their foods for preservation purposes.

"May we continue to be as useful on the home front as we have been," was the plea of Mrs. Peet. In introducing her subject, "Women on the Home Front," Mrs. Peet had reminded that "The war is being fought to defend our homes which are the center of our democratic way of life." She spoke of the wife and mother as the barometer of the family atmosphere.

"From the homes come the men who fight to defend us. From the homes come the men who make our laws; and from the homes come the children of the land. There is a big task confronting the women in the homes."

Mrs. Peet called on other members of her committee for contributions to the program. Mrs. George E. Boswell told of changes in nutrition and how such affects the home front. She reminded that paramount in the minds of all is victory, and considered the relation of nutrition to the winning of the war. She asked the women to abide by the government rules in buying foods, and urged them to boycott the black markets. Mrs. Samuel Roberts gave pointers on the wartime consumer, giving suggestions on feeding the family well under the rationing system. "Buy carefully of the most nourishing foods," she said. She asked that hoarding be avoided; and sought cooperation in purchase of clothing, buying no more than is actually needed. "We are learning to economize. We are in training for the post-war epoch," Mrs. A. Russell Burton spoke of salvage in its various phases, including tin-cans, waste paper, etc. She mentioned that tin cans can be taken to the Artesian Coal Co., from where they will be placed in the proper channels for re-use.

During the business meeting, Mrs. E. Linton Martin presided, with minutes being read by Mrs. Boswell. Short report of the Southeastern District Conference of Women's Clubs held at Reading was given by the president. Two members resigned, and four new members were welcomed, the latter group including Mrs. Charles Carson, Mrs. A. Russell Burton, Mrs. Stanley Whittemore, and Mrs. Leon J. Hutton. Mrs. Robert Brooks' membership has also been transferred from the junior club to the senior club.

Mrs. Frank Lehman reported that over $69 was cleared at the September card party.

The county federation meetings for October 29th were announced, the hours being 10 a. m. and 1.30 p. m., with programs in Bristol Presbyterian Church. The victory harvest show on that day will be arranged in the club home. Mrs. Earl H. Tamb announced classes for this, Mrs. Walter Pitonka being county chairman of conservation and in charge of such plans. Announcement of the reception for the juniors on November 5th at eight p. m., was also made. Mrs. Charles I. Bowen reminded of a card party and white elephant bazaar to be held by the juniors on November 18th.

The musician of the afternoon was Miss Mary Elizabeth Finegan, who delighted with two piano selections.

defendant and in the defendant's counter-claim against the plaintiff the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. This means that neither side received a money verdict. When the case was tried in 1941 a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $100 was awarded, and a new trial was later granted.

A verdict for $109.51 was returned by a jury in Judge Calvin S. Boyer's court in favor of the plaintiff, Edward M. Happ, Doylestown contractor, against Harry Witte and Violet B. Witte. Attorney Webster Achey represented the defendant and C. G. Biehn, Quakertown, the defendants.

Trial also got under way Thursday in Judge Boyer's court in the case of Ridpath & Potter Company, Inc., vs. George Krause and Marie E. Krause, owners.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

To All Consumers of Gasoline:

Counterfeit gasoline coupons have brought about a condition that affects all gasoline dealers to the extent that we believe extraordinary care in the observance of gasoline rationing regulations must be taken to avoid serious consequences. For this reason, we call the following to your attention:

It is illegal for anyone to have in his possession a gasoline ration coupon that does not have the license number of the motor vehicle for which it was issued, written or stamped in ink on the front where space is provided, or if no space is provided, on the back. If a ration was issued under a Certificate of War Necessity, or for a vehicle that is part of a fleet, then the Certificate Number or the name and address of the fleet owner must be written or stamped in ink on the gasoline ration coupon.

It is illegal for any operator of a motor vehicle to offer to anyone from whom he is buying gasoline a coupon that is not endorsed in this manner. Dealers must not endorse coupons that are presented to them by their customers; the coupons must be endorsed by the customers before being presented to the dealers.

Dealers are responsible for checking to make sure that the endorsement is the same as the license on the car. Should the coupon presented to the dealer prove to be a counterfeit, OPA can locate the person that presented the coupon from the license number.

It is our understanding that if the number on the counterfeit coupon is the same as the license number on the car for which the coupon was presented that the OPA investigators consider that the dealer has done his part and will conduct the investigation directly with the customer. If, on the other hand, the endorsement was not made by the customer, or if the endorsement does not correspond with the license number of the car for which it was presented, the dealer is in violation of the regulations and subject to prosecution.

We recommend that you follow only this procedure:

- 1) ACCEPT NO COUPONS THAT HAVE NOT BEEN ENDORSED BY THE CUSTOMER.
- 2) MAKE SURE THAT THE ENDORSEMENT CORRESPONDS TO THE LICENSE NUMBER ON THE CAR FOR WHICH THE COUPON IS PRESENTED.
- 3) ACCEPT NO LOOSE COUPONS.
